Loc&More Ltd presents the Wagner-locomotive, the first and only one locomotive of the world, that can play a classical music.

Loco
Sound

The Taurus-loco No 470 503 of GYSEV/Raaberbahn runs since 17th July 2013 on the railways of Hungary, Austria and probably soon in Germany as well.

The Wagner-Taurus was born from the idea of Loc&More Ltd, just as Széchenyi, Liszt, Goldteam and Sisi locomotives.

The design represents two major operas of Richard Wagner (The Flying Dutchman and Lohengrin) and the Ride of the Valkyries can be heard from the 2x800 Watt loud-speakers of the locomotive while rolling into the station and during its staying there — unlike any other locomotive in the world.

The HO scale models will be produced by Jägerndorfer, the sound decoders will be delivered by ESU which can play not only the usual Taurus sounds but the classical music of Richard Wagner as well — like the original locomotive and its predecessor, the Liszt-Taurus.

The models can be ordered at Loc&More Ltd under item No as listed below:
